

CAC SPECIAL ISSUE: AJSLP CALL FOR PAPERS

Clinical Aphasiology Conference | AJSLP Special Issue Opportunity

KEY FEATURES

Embedded Multimedia

Supplemental Materials

Altmetric Dashboard

ReadCube Enhanced PDF

GrowKudos Expansion

Open Access Option

Deposits to PubMed Central

Social Media Promotion

AJSLP Impact Factor

1.713 (2017) / 2.343 (5 year)

pubs.asha.org

PAPERS OF ALL TYPES WELCOME

Authors are encouraged to consider publishing their research presented at the 2019 Clinical Aphasiology Conference in a Special Issue of the American Journal of Speech-Language Pathology.

- Guest Editor: Melissa Collins Duff
- Publication Date: February 2021

Timeline:

- September 16, 2019 Submissions received
- January 15, 2020 First decisions to authors
- May 1, 2020 Author revisions submitted
- July 15, 2020 Second decisions to authors

All final decisions will be made by September 16, 2020.

ABOUT THE JOURNALS

AJSLP is independently published and available as a member benefit to the more than 204,000 members and affiliates of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

Available in libraries and other institutions worldwide, the ASHA journals are key components of the ASHAWire publishing platform, which features:

- Related article recommendations from the journals, the Special Interest Group Perspectives, and The ASHA Leader;
- Responsive design for full accessibility on any mobile device;
- Automatic inclusion in our Topic Collections, as applicable;
- Integration with the Clinical Research Education Library.

NEXT STEPS

Submit your letter of intent by July 15, 2019 to the guest editor, Dr. Duff (melissa.c.duff@vanderbilt.edu). Include a draft title and abstract so that reviewers can be identified. Manuscript submission deadline: September 16, 2019.

Consult academy.pubs.asha.org for complete submission requirements.